

Cheesemonger Wanted

Wholesale Account Manager

We are looking for an experienced food professional to help us source, age and sell some of the best cheese in London. Cheese experience would be preferred although it's not essential if you are enthusiastic and willing to learn.

This is an opportunity to join and contribute to the continued growth of a young, award-winning business and could be the perfect fit for someone working in the hospitality industry looking for a change.

The role

We are currently looking for someone to work in our ageing rooms and wholesale department. This is a full-time role including weekend work.

Your responsibilities will include:

- Developing and nurturing relationships with our discerning wholesale customers including making sales and delivering training
- Identifying and approaching new customers
- Preparing and packing cheese and charcuterie orders for despatch to wholesale customers
- Working with our Cellar Manager to condition our cheese to the highest standards
- Organisation and cleaning of the maturing rooms in compliance with our HACCP systems
- Completing paperwork relating to food safety
- Serving retail customers in our shop
- Assisting with private events

The ideal candidate

The ideal candidate will:

- Have a few years' experience and/or a passion for working with cheese
- Be organised, have an eye for detail and a genuine desire to exceed the expectations of our customers
- Be physically fit. This is a physically demanding job and you will need to be prepared to lift heavy cheese and work in our refrigerated maturing rooms
- Be able to take the initiative and be interested in contributing to the continued growth of the business as a team

In return

This position is ideal for someone interested in a long-term challenge with plenty of opportunity to grow within the business.

- We offer an annual training plan including supplier visits and industry get-togethers
- Discount on our cheese and other speciality produce
- Salary £23–28k depending on experience

If you think this is for you then please forward your CV along with a cover letter to info@buchananscheesemonger.com